

USAID
FROM THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

GLOBAL HEALTH FELLOWS

Join Us In Creating A Diverse Global Health Workforce

The Global Health Fellows Program's Diversity Initiative aims to provide opportunities for individuals of diverse backgrounds, including those historically underrepresented in the field of global health, to gain exposure to international health programs and build their skills. Efforts toward increasing and sustaining diversity have been woven throughout the program.

GHFP's vision is to help develop a sustainable pool of talented global health professionals that improves the effectiveness of USAID Population, Health and Nutrition programs. GHFP currently supports 120 fellows in Washington, DC and overseas. US citizenship or permanent resident status required.

Internships to help jump start your career in Global Health

GHFP has a robust internship program that places qualified individuals in positions at USAID headquarters in Washington, DC and with partner organizations in developing countries in Africa and Southeast Asia. Sign up for our listserv to receive notice of new postings.

Ready for resume and career tips from an employer's point-of-view?

How do I gain overseas experience? What should I include in a cover letter? How do I get noticed in a sea of applicants? We'll spend 30 minutes with you providing customized advice designed to help focus your resume and next steps for a career in global health. Visit www.ghfp.net, click on the informational interview link, follow the instructions and we'll set you up with one of our seasoned staffers.

Follow us on Facebook: <http://www.facebook.com/pages/Global-Health-Fellows-Program/>

USAID's Global Health Fellows Program is implemented by the Public Health Institute and its partners: Harvard School of Public Health • Management Systems International • Tulane University School of Public Health and Tropical Medicine

www.ghfp.net