

Women in Science Lunch Series

Please join the new bi-monthly luncheon series dedicated to the professional development and mentoring of women in science at George Mason University. The series welcomes faculty, staff, postdoctoral fellows, graduate, and undergraduate students to discuss topics relevant to the gender gap and gender biases in science. Other topics will include building your CV (resume), completing academic job applications, science communication, time management, and the use of technology in science. The series invites new topics and learning opportunities, so please feel free to reach out with ideas for future meetings. Participants are encouraged to bring their own lunch for the meeting hour.

WHERE: David King Hall, Room 3006

TIME: 12:00PM – 1:00PM

Wednesday, February 11, 2015

Wednesday, March 4, 2015

Wednesday, March 18, 2015

Wednesday, April 1, 2015

Wednesday, April 22, 2015

Participants should RSVP to Dr. Kristy Lewis via email or sign-up sheet located outside DK 3032.

Upon RSVP, participants will receive a confirmation email and links to any material prior to each meeting.

klewis22@gmu.edu

David King Hall, Office 3032