

Summer Fellowship Opportunity

UNDERSTANDING RELIGIOUS FREEDOM: STUDIES ON THE DEVELOPMENT AND IMPACT OF RELIGIOUS LIBERTY IN HISTORY AND TODAY

APPLICATION DEADLINE: May 4, 2018

Does your dissertation explore the sources, development, and impact of religious freedom? We seek proposals for dissertations that explore the relationship between religious liberty and the global common good; its importance for democracy, social and economic development, or countering violent religious extremism; the religious freedom of institutions; and the relationship between institutional religious freedom and the common good of Western and non-Western societies in history and today.

For more information, visit berkeleycenter.georgetown.edu/subprojects/doctoral-fellows-program or contact Timothy Shah at timothy.shah@georgetown.edu.

These fellowships are made possible by generous support from the William E. Simon Foundation and the Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation. They are overseen by the Religious Freedom Research Project, the nation's only university-based research program devoted exclusively to the analysis of religious freedom, which is made possible through the support of its strategic partner, Baylor University's Institute for Studies of Religion.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM RESEARCH PROJECT

BERKLEY CENTER
for Religion, Peace & World Affairs

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY

BAYLOR INSTITUTE FOR Studies of Religion