

Call for Papers!

16th Annual Queen City Colloquium and Interdisciplinary History Conference

The History Graduate Student Association at the University of Cincinnati is proud to announce its sixteenth annual Queen City Colloquium, to take place on April 5, 2019. This conference is an opportunity for graduate student scholars working on historical topics in any discipline to present original research and receive critical feedback from peers and experts in their areas of study.

This year's keynote speaker will be Craig Koslofsky of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, and author of Evening's Empire: A History of the Night in Early Modern Europe. His paper will be titled "Oceans of Skin in the Early Modern World."

We invite submission of individual papers from graduate students at all levels of study and from all topics and periods of historical scholarship.

DEADLINE FOR PAPER PROPOSALS IS JANUARY 18th, 2019.

Please Limit Proposals to 250-300 words. Papers submissions should include a working title and a brief description of the central argument, as well as a C.V.

Participants will be notified by February 8th, 2019. If selected, participants must submit a final paper by March 15nd, 2019.

Please send proposals to howarcw@mail.uc.edu
