

Fall 2021 Graduate HIST Courses

Type	Instructor	Number	Topic	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	4:30pm	Online	USA Origins-1861	USA 1861-1914	USA 1914-present	Europe to 1789	Europe 1789-1914	Europe 1914-present	World: Africa	World: Asia	World: Middle East	Applied
Introductory	Bristol	HIST 610	Study and Writing of History	•					•
	Chang	HIST 610	Study and Writing of History			•		•	•
Reading	Yilmaz	HIST 535/575	Approaches Mid East/Islam Hist		•				•									•
	Sherwin	HIST 555/615	Summer 1945: War to Cold War				•		•		•							•
	Scully	HIST 613	Colonial North America			•				•
	Richards Jordan	HIST 615	Race, Gender and Lynching		•			•	•		•	•
	Park	HIST 615/635	Disease, Medicine, & Society				•		•		•	•		•	•
	Schrag	HIST 623	Recent US Hist:1945-Pres				•					•
	Ho	HIST 635	Creating Value				•	•					•
	Huneke	HIST 635	Nazi Germany		•				•						•
	Pichichero	HIST 635	Black Europe	•				•	•				•	•	•	•
	Genetin-Pilawa	HIST 664	Indigenous North America				•	•	•	•	•	•
Applied	Lair	HIST 679	War and Remembrance	•					•		•	•							•
	A. Mullen	HIST 680	Introduction to Digital Humanities						•										•
	O'Malley	HIST 688	History and Politics of Sound	•															•
	Otis	HIST 696	Clio Wired: Hist/New Med			•			H										•
Research	Kierner	HIST 797	Age of Revolutions	•					•
	Smith	HIST 797	Death in History		•

NOTES: Several courses are listed as fulfilling more than one requirement. In these cases, you may choose which requirement to fulfill with the course, but each course can only fill one slot. HIST 696 is scheduled to meet both in the classroom and online; students should choose the mode they prefer. HIST 679 can count as a reading course or an applied course. HIST 680 is part of the graduate certificate in Digital Public Humanities and has a separate registration system and tuition schedule. It will be taught asynchronously. This chart is designed to reflect information on Patriot Web and the department website. If you notice any discrepancies, please regard Patriot Web as authoritative and alert Professor Schrag to the error on this chart.