

*A workshop co-hosted by Mason's
CENTER FOR HUMANITIES RESEARCH and
CENTER FOR SOCIAL SCIENCE RESEARCH*

Stretching Disciplinary Boundaries: Discussing Possibilities at the Intersection of the Humanities and Social Sciences

A panel of Mason scholars working at the intersection of these disciplines will speak about their work. Together, as a group and in breakout rooms, we will reflect on the difficulties and new possibilities opened up by research projects that stretch across disciplinary boundaries.

Isidore Dorpenyo (Assistant Professor, English)

Shannon Fyfe (Assistant Professor, Philosophy)

Vivek Narayanan (Assistant Professor, English)

Amaka Okechukwu (Assistant Professor, Sociology and Anthropology)

Jessica Otis (Assistant Professor, History and Art History)

Rick Smith (Assistant Professor, Sociology and Anthropology)

Friday, December 3, 2021

1:00-2:30 pm

Virtual Zoom Panel

Click here to join!

